

Juniors Change Prom Plans, Date Moved, New Band

John O'Connor, Junior Class president, has announced that almost all of the former plans for the Junior Prom have been canceled. The original date scheduled the dance for March 31, but because no hotel was available at that time or any other Saturday until June, it had to be changed to Friday, March 30.

The prom will be held in the Charles' Room of the Belvedere Hotel from nine until one. Formal dress and corsages will be in order, according to Norman Karolenko, Business Manager.

Ticket Sales Near

Tickets will go on sale to the student body in the near future. The price will be $4.80 per couple and all students and alumni are invited to attend.

A campaign has been inaugurated to have each junior contribute one dollar to insure his reservation. On March 2, however, bids will be opened to the entire school. It is necessary to give the third year men preference because of the limited amount of space.

Contract Men Of Note

Anthony Spartana, program chairman, has announced that work has begun on the program. A drive for patrons will soon begin with the fee set at fifty cents.

Carl Hamilton's orchestra, previously contacted, is not available because of the change in dates. The Men of Note, however, have been contracted and John Spellacy, orchestra committee chairman, has made the final arrangements.

An extensive publicity campaign is being formulated under the direction of Richard Cadigan. Tentative plans include the choosing of a queen from pictures submitted by students and a general advertising program.

June Graduates Ready Program

John Garland, president of the senior class, announces that the Senior Prom will be held on May 4 from nine until one in the Caswell Room of the Lord Baltimore Hotel. Attendance will be limited to 100 couples and though no orchestra has been chosen as yet, there are three under consideration.

The senior class banquet is scheduled for June 13 in the Gold Room of the Park Plaza Hotel. Francis X. Trainor and Edwin Leimkuhler, who represent the Loyola branch to the A.S.N., national Jesuit honor society, have been delegated to choose a guest speaker for the occasion.

A new feature of Senior Week is a graduation dance two days before the commencement exercises. The dance will be semi-formal, strictly senior, and with corsages. The affair will be on June 15 at the Chesapeake Lounge of the Hotel Emerson. The orchestra will be announced shortly.

The senior class also announces that the photographer who visited the college last month to take pictures of the underclassmen for inclusion in the yearbook will return soon to take more pictures. This will enable each student to be represented by a 3/4 inch square photo with his name along side of it, since there will be no underclass group pictures.

Med-Schools Accept Ten Loyolans

Seven Loyola seniors and three juniors have received notice of their acceptance to medical school and six other students have received similar acceptances from dental school.

The three juniors—John Darrell, Vernon Gelhaus and Paul Mueller will begin their studies with seniors Otto Beyer, Martin Feldman, Paul Hudson, Anthony Lewandowski, John Schanberger and Alexander Spock at University of Maryland next fall. William Vitale will attend Georgetown University.

Daniel Bargteil, Henry Feindt, James Liszewski, Joseph Seipp and Hans Wilhelmsen will go to the University of Maryland Dental School and Edwin Gregory will start at Georgetown in September. All of these men, except Seipp, are juniors.

It was necessary for the students, before acceptance, to file two applications, forward a transcript of their college marks and appear for an interview before a board of doctors. To date several have not taken their medical aptitude test but will do so in May.

This year a plan has been inaugurated making it necessary to also pass an aptitude test for dental school. These examinations will be given during the Easter holidays and again in May.

McNamara Essay Winner

The Evergreen Quarterly recently held a writing contest open to the entire college for the best manuscript submitted for publication. The prize of fifteen dollars was awarded to James McNamara '54, who turned in a short story dealing with the racial problem. Several members of the Jesuit faculty, including the moderator, Rev. Joseph A. d'Inwilliers, S.J., acted as judges.

After the first issue, Daniel Mackey, who was named editor of the quarterly in October, resigned to enlist in the Army; he is succeeded by his assistant, Thomas X. Murn. The new associate editors are John Farrell and John McGrain.

The second issue of the magazine is scheduled to appear the first week of March. It will feature an article by Dr. Frank Ayd, well-known Baltimore psychiatrist and Loyola alumnus of the class of '42. There is also a European travel article by William Manger, as well as the prize winning short story and a quantity of student poetry.

The editors announce that material is being gathered for the third and fourth issues and all short stories, essays, articles of opinion, book reviews, literary criticisms, humor and poetry are acceptable. Articles may be left with the moderator, the editors or deposited in the quarterly's mail box near the central stairs of the Library Building.

Greyhound Staff Visits MSA For Catholic Press Conference

The ninth annual Catholic Press Conference of Maryland and the District of Columbia was held yesterday at Mt. St. Agnes College, Mount Washington, Maryland.

Moderators and student journalists from colleges, high schools and parishes in Maryland, Washington and Virginia attended the conference which was under the direction of Sister M. Evelyn, R.S.M., head of the Department of Journalism at the host college.

Rev. John J. Scanlon, S.J.

Loyola College was represented by Howard J. France, editor-in-chief of THE GREYHOUND, Thomas J. Garrity, managing editor, and eight members of the staff. The Evergreen Quarterly was also present with a delegation of three.

The conference opened at 9:30 A.M. with the Mass of the Holy Spirit celebrated by The Most Reverend Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, followed by a welcoming address by Sister M. Placide, R.S.M., President of Mt. St. Agnes College. Mrs. Mary Lewis Coakley, noted lecturer, and author of the book, Fitting God Into The Picture, was the honored speaker at the first general session.

Next on the agenda was a roundtable discussion under the moderation of Sister Mary Ellen from St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Maryland. France took part in the discussion with a four minute address entitled "How Powerful Can A College Newspaper Be On Campus?"

After lunch the business of the conference was resumed with a talk by the Rev. John J. Scanlon, S.J., Prof. of Ethics at Loyola College and moderator of THE GREYHOUND. His subject was, "The Staff Organization of a College Paper." Also included were talks by: Mrs. Edward J. Sybert on "Trade Magazines," Mr. John Ursprung on "Yearbook Planning," Mrs. Daniel O. Tracey of the Sunpapers on "Feature Writing," Sister Maura, S.S.N.D., and Sister M. Cleophas, R.S.M., on "Literary Magazines."

The conference was concluded with Benediction of The Most Blessed Sacrament. A social hour for the journalists followed while the moderators talked things over at a high-level meeting of their own.

Debaters Set For Tourney

The Robert Bellarmine Debating Society has announced tentative plans to travel to Tennessee in March to participate in the annual Tau Kappa Alpha debating tournament. Over fifty colleges and universities throughout the nation will compete and there will be an extemporaneous speaking contest at the closing banquet.

In a recent tournament held at Johns Hopkins University, Loyola finished second behind the host team. Other colleges participating were Temple, William and Mary, Gettysburg, LaSalle, Trinity, Georgetown, Muhlenberg and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

A trip to Gettysburg and Emmitsburg to debate Gettysburg College and Mount Saint Mary's College is planned for tomorrow, February 24. Joseph Blair and John Seal will defend the negative and John Fitzpatrick and Edward Reahl will uphold the affirmative in a double debate.

France To Head Student Paper

Howard J. France has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Loyola campus newspaper, THE GREYHOUND, following the resignation of Eugene Corrigan. Corrigan has resigned in order to devote more time to the completion of his senior thesis.

France, the newly appointed editor, has been a staff member of THE GREYHOUND since his freshman year. During the past three years he has held the positions of page editor, managing editor, and associate editor.

The two major positions of managing editor and sports editor were filled by Thomas J. Garrity and Joseph Steffens, respectively. Other promotions were as follows: Joseph Bartolomeo, exchange editor; John McGrain, and Richard Fowler, page editors; Michael Cinquegrani, librarian.

Garrity and Steffens, too, are veterans of three years with the paper. Garrity having also held the post of page editor and associate editor while Steffens was appointed assistant sports editor last fall.

The other top posts of executive editor and news editor are still being held by Neale Smith and Edward Reahl, respectively. Assistant page editors, composed mostly of freshmen, will be appointed after the new editor-in-chief decides who is best suited for these positions.

CONDITIONS

All students incurring failures in semester examinations are required to take a re-test on March 5. The complete schedule will be posted on the main bulletin board in the Library Building.

In order for a student to be eligible for continuance in such courses, it is necessary for him to pass this re-examination.

In accordance with school regulations, credit for a course is given only when both the semester average and the semester examination marks are sixty-five or above.

News In Brief

Fund Lack Inhibits Progress of Annual

The progress of the 1951 Evergreen Annual is still being hampered by the lack of funds according to Editor-in-Chief, Robert L. Owen. Originally it had been hoped that the $1800 needed to cover the expense of printing the book could be raised through advertisements and patrons. Thus far, however, only $450 has been derived from those sources.

To offset the deficit, tentative plans have been made to send letters to the parents of the student body offering them a subscription for the price of $5.00; some five hundred letters are expected to be mailed. There is also the possibility of record dances or raffles being held in the future in order to raise additional funds.

Meanwhile, actual work on the yearbook is continuing steadily. The dummy is now in the process of being laid out, although at present there is a shortage of photographs.

Renowned Educators in Night School

Cyril M. Witte, Acting Chairman, Department of Education

In a previous issue we contended that Education is a task of supreme importance in our present crisis. Loyola College is aware of the pressing need for good teachers, and Father North, Dean of the Evening School and Graduate Division, has on the staff of the Education Department professional educators representing the best developments in modern education.

Dr. Katenkamp, who offers courses in Educational Administration and the Junior College, teaches from a solid background developed during his years of educational leadership at Patterson Park High School and now at Baltimore City College.

Lenten Play Drafted By Dramatic Society

The Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society has announced through its moderator, the Rev. Leo G. Monaghan, that it is exploring the possibility of staging Paul Vincent Carroll's famous Lenten production Shadow and Substance.

Difficulty in staging the show arises from the fact that the Irish drama contains four female roles, one of which cannot be converted readily into a male part. Traditionally, use of the fair sex in dramatic productions is frowned upon, so until the problem is solved the plans must remain unsettled.

offers Religious and Moral Guidance.

Dr. Ayd On Faculty

Dr. Frank Ayd, M.D., Psychiatrist, and Mr. William Doyle bulwark the Psychology courses included in our Education program.

Courses in Audio-Visual Education and Safety Education will bring Miss Smuck and Mr. Bennett, specialists in their respective fields, to our staff.

Nor should we omit mention of the lecturers who have added to the interest, value, and extent of our program: Dr. Brubacher of Yale, Dr. Gallagher of the U. S. Office of Education, Dr. Pullen, State Superintendent of Education, Dr. Lemmel, Superintendent of City Schools, Mr. James O'Toole, Superintendent of Secondary Education, Baltimore County, Mr. Van Sant, recognized authority in Adult Education, and others.

Present Intense Interest

The staff, the courses, the lecturers present a wealth of experience and an intensity of interest which can only guarantee a profitable and successful program. We want our program to be dynamic, interesting, and, most of all, contributory to the improvement of our educational system. By it you can qualify for almost any educational position in our public school system. You can earn a Master's degree which is recognized by most educational systems.

While our program is designed to qualify prospective teachers for either city or county positions, we would ask you to consider and evaluate it as a probable answer to the question which all of us ask ourselves in the quiet of our meditations, "How then can I better love my fellow men?"

Vote At 18

A movement to lower the age at which Marylanders can vote has been the subject of debate in the House of Delegates for the past several weeks. If the measure passes, the minimum voting age in Maryland for national, state and local elections will be changed from twenty-one to eighteen.

Sponsors of the measure state, "If they are old enough to fight, they ought to be old enough to express a voice in government." Evidently there is still confusion in Annapolis; it is time to stop playing politics and admit that physical ability is not an indication of mental ability.

Few youths at eighteen are developed enough mentally to wisely differentiate between political candidates. Their minds are malleable, influenced by what color psychology is being employed by the politicians, or what teacher may say.

It is the latter group of influence which presents the greatest problem. Not much time will pass before unscrupulous politicians begin handing out teaching positions as political plums to individuals who know nothing and who bow the lowest.

If the voting age must be lowered, a wiser plan would be to set the minimum age at nineteen and one-half. By then the youths are sufficiently (not wholly) enlightened as to what is their stake in the government.

Loyola Who's Who

Four Evergreen seniors received the honor of being included in the collegiate version of Who's Who. The honor rightly belongs to the four, yet as in every endeavor there are unsung heroes. The choice was a difficult one; many were deserving, but as is regrettable with all publications like this national year-book, space is a precious thing, and not all could share the limelight.

THE GREYHOUND feels that it would be unjustifiable not to mention these other students and express our appreciation to them also for a "job well done." These men have proven themselves to be faithful and of invaluable service to the college, striving always to uphold the fine tradition of Loyola.

It is this persistence and fidelity which will pay dividends for these men later in life; we are confident that if the curtain of the future could be parted, the following names would also be eminently displayed in the news: Eugene F. X. Conroy, Eugene P. Corrigan, Jr., Edward Fredrick, Robert Freeze, Edwin Leimkuhler, Andrew McCormick, Edward Miller and Alexander Spock.

From the Library

CATHOLIC BOOK WEEK expires tomorrow at midnight. You can still make it an immortal success locally. Help us enrich our library by a few hundred books of proven worth. IT WON'T COST YOU A CENT, nor more than a trifle of time or trouble. It's the chance of a lifetime.

Our files disclose that in recent years almost a thousand volumes from our shelves have become lost, strayed, or sunk without trace — one or two a week. They were good books, or they'd never have been kept overdue till it was too embarrassing to return them. They lie somewhere about the homes of countless students, alumni, and faculty members. You'll find them supporting wobbly tables, serving as door-stops and footstools, plugging ratholes, or taking up valuable space in trunks, attics, and cellars. Do look now, or you'll never realize that you, too, have unwittingly been one of the culprits.

Here's the proposition. From today until March 7, feast of St. Thomas Aquinas (who rated failure to return borrowed books a major crime), we won't inquire who's returning what, or how long overdue. NO FINES WILL BE COLLECTED, no check-up made, no questions asked. We do beg everyone's cooperation in recovering our books. It would cost a small fortune to replace them all; some are irreplaceable.

Observe Catholic Book Week with a good resolution: not to borrow books but by the ordinary charging process; not to keep them overtime or carelessly lend them; not to be ashamed to return them whenever and wherever they may be found.

Setting Things Straight

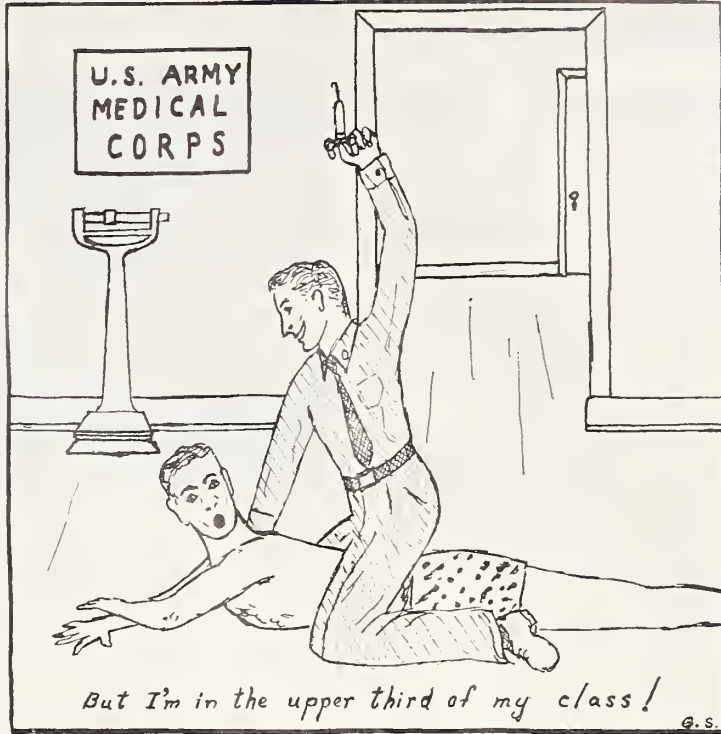

To the Editor, SIR: I should begin by saying that I am deeply grateful to the students and faculty of the College for their many kindnesses to me during my late incarceration in Mercy Hospital. Given the opportunity, it is my intention to express my thanks personally to them all.

There is one point, however, in your interesting news account recently published which greatly intrigues me. It is stated (p. 2, Vol. XXIV, No. 6) that "Dr. Kirwin's leg was broken in five places and required fifty pounds of traction for six weeks before it could be set". In the interest of assisting any future biographer who may care to know, let me say that I doubt this very much. It felt like fifty pounds but confidentially I am told that it was more nearly a matter of ten pounds of traction for five or six weeks which really turned the trick.

No doubt from generous motives your reporter desired to place me in the category of the immortals. While travelling in mysterious Tibet, Lowell Thomas is said to have suffered a fracture of his femur in eight places. As for Justice Douglas, the hearsay evidence is well nigh conclusive that the learned justice made quite a mess of his femur on being hurtled down the side of a treacherous mountain in the Far West. For the record let it be noted also that both these gentlemen fell off a horse and/or donkey. History professors seldom succumb under such glamorous circumstances. When they fall it is most likely caused by such pedestrian material as coffee or catsup and the result is just an ordinary broken leg, otherwise known in the Francis McGuire—BS I—Freshman: "Yes, for the time being. We in the United States are in a better position to take up that line of defense than those countries over there under the present circumstances".

Marvin Feldstein—BS I—Freshman: "No, because the United States couldn't do it. The economy of the nation could not stand the money or materials necessary".

Hound Ice Team Posts 2-1 Mark

For the past three Sunday evenings closely contested hockey games have been played by the Hound Hockey Club. The Hounds, though not in any way sponsored by Loyola College, are composed principally of Loyola students.

Each of the encounters was forced into overtime play because of 4-to-4 and 3-to-3 ties.

Top Homewood

Out of the first deadlock, which arose in the game with the Homewood Club, the Hounds emerged victorious, 6-to-4, on the strength of goals by Marv Bobbitt and Marty Fairbanks.

The Homewood Club is composed of students from Johns Hopkins University.

Lose To Terps

The following Sunday, the Hounds were dealt a discouraging blow. The Terps of the University of Maryland handed them a 6-to-5 defeat. With but a few moments left to play in the overtime period, Bill Larash pulled the game out of the fire with a long slap shot.

Last Sunday evening, the Hounds and a team composed of Forest Park High School alumni played to a 3-to-3 tie. This game, too, went into a double overtime.

Score For The Hounds

Scoring for the Hounds in this last contest were Charley Wagner, George Corrigan and Joe Boulay. Once again Charlie Spigelmire, former All-Maryland player from Loyola High, stared in the goal for the Hounds.

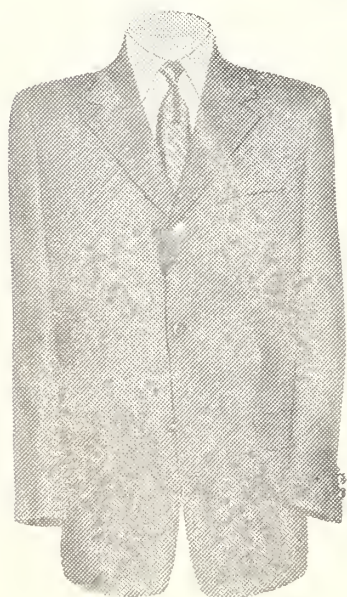

Other members of the Hounds' squad include Tom Wagner, Clark Farrell, Bob Strott, Joe Blair, Bill Mercier, Tommy Giblin, Tom Oaster and Bruce Alderman.

NEAL BATHON IS CAUGHT by the camera eye as he is in the process of attempting to pin his Catholic University foe in the recent match between the Cardinals and Loyola.

Spring Sports Squads Hampered By Graduation And Enlistments

Of all the coaches tutoring Loyola College spring sport squads, track mentor Bill McElroy is the only one showing any semblance of a smile at his prospects for the coming campaign. The rest of the squads were riddled by graduation and losses to military service.

Lefty Reitz' diamond minions will take the field this year with only four regulars returning from last year's cast which finished with a 16-and-3 record, copped first place in the northern division of the Mason-Dixon Conference, and shared the league diadem with Hampden-Sydney.

Losses Are Heavy

Heavy hitting Mike Zedalis, Tom Lind and Ed Hagerty were graduated, and Bill Tucker departed for a college in the south.

Jim Bullington, who headed the club with a .395 average last year, is the only gardener back. The right side of the inner cordon looms strong with Mel Wright and Red Schneider returning to handle first base and the keystone sack.

Battery Back

The battery corps offers the only chance for rejoicing with George Franz prepared for another fling behind the plate and the pitching battalion of Bob Matthews, Dan Donohue, Bill Mercier, Jerry Malone, and Dick Ward taking up the slack caused by the departure of Don Semesky and John Amer.

Bish Baker's chances of improving last year's record of 4-won-5 lost on the lacrosse field blew up in his face when goalie Gene Finley, and defenseman Frank Potterfield enlisted in the Army Air Corps, defenseman Bob Freeze incapacitated by an operation, and midfielder Bob Bradley deciding to turn his talents to the tennis courts.

However, Baker has three promising freshmen in Frank Nasco, Ned Callahan, and Marty Fairbanks to aid the six returning regulars.

The tennis squad, which lost to Catholic University in the Mason-Dixon championship playoff last year, lost Jerry Laroque, Maryland State and M-D kingpin, Bernie Bateman and Ed Ward, but should field a talented team this year in Tom McDermott, John Darrell, Bill Barnett, Talbott Cockey, Bob Bradley and a promising newcomer, Joe Lacy.

Bill McElroy lost valuable men in hurdlers Tom Maskell and Walt Smyth, distance man Joe Coyne, and Bernie Bateman and Jason Brunk from last year's track outfit, but the outlook is a lot brighter with a host of lettermen returning and two promising frosh in John Benzing and Ed Colbourn.

Cagers, Swimmers, Matmen Nearing Season's Finale

by Joe Steffens

Basketball

The Loyola cagers, contrary to pre-season predictions, have emerged as one of the powers in the M-D conference race. The Hounds have at this writing, a 6-and-3 record in conference competition and are in the thick of the league race for top honors.

On January 23, the Green and Grey quintet tripped Washington College by a 57-to-43 margin. Nick Scallion, one of the conference's leading scorers, was "held" to 21 points as the Hounds took advantage of their height to down the Sho'men.

Middies Win

In the next six games the Hounds stepped out of league competition to engage some of the better squads in the country. LaSalle repaid an earlier visit by the Loyola quintet and paced by Jack George showed why the Explorers are rated among the top teams in the nation. The LaSalle five handed Loyola a 71-to-42 thumping.

The Hounds nipped St. Peters by a score of 64-to-63 on January 27 to gain their first E.C.I.A.C. win. The Green and Grey five then dropped a decision to Navy, which under the tutelage of Ben Carnavale is having one of its best seasons in years. Following this, a sophomore-studded Georgetown team, led by rookie Ken Sullivan, handed the Evergreen cagers a setback here at Loyola on February 3.

Hounds Travel

The Green and Grey then took to the road where they absorbed defeats from Dayton and Xavier while coming out on the long end of a 58-to-55 verdict with Morris-Harvey.

The Loyola five returned home and renewed the Mason-Dixon wars with American U. on February 14. The Eagles gained revenge for an early season loss as they edged the Hounds by a 53-to-48 margin. Ineptness at the foul line and the flashy play of American U's Leroy Ishman proved to be the Hounds' undoing.

The Hounds jumped back into the conference picture the following Saturday as they downed the league-leading Mt. St. Mary's cagers by a score of 59-to-49. The Loyola five, paced by an ever-improving Ben Cook and Vince Gallagher, avenged a 73-to-65 defeat which they suffered at the hands of the Mountaineers last month.

Wrestling

The Loyola wrestlers are undergoing one of the worst seasons in several years. The Hound matmen are currently sporting a seasonal log of two wins as against four losses. Hampered by inexperience, the grapplers are finding the going rough against the competition with which they are confronted.

On January 20, the Green and Grey wrestlers were downed by Johns Hopkins by a score of 25 to 12. The Blue Jays, who are the defending champions, gave every indication that they intend to keep the mat crown for another season by winning every match except two. Jack Cyphers, who holds down the 157-lb. bracket and Vince Kelly at the 167-lb. position came out on top in their respective matches.

Down Bees

The matmen crashed the win column on January 27 when they earned a decisive win over Baltimore University by a 27-to-13 margin. However, it must be pointed out that Captain Bob Weiss and Vince Kelly won their matches by forfeit.

Nevertheless, the Hounds displayed their superiority by gaining wins in the 138-lb. division, which was won by Ted Haupt and in the 157-lb. class as Jack Cyphers snared top honors, and in the heavyweight branch as Jack Fallon, a newcomer to wrestling circles, came out on the long end of his match.

Gallaudet Triumphs

Gallaudet handed the Hounds their fourth defeat of the year by a score of 23 to 9 on February 3 at Washington. The Green and Grey grapplers managed to win only three matches.

Joe McLaughlin gained a win in the 138-lb. class, and the dependable duo of Jack Cyphers and Vince Kelly emerged victorious in their contests.

On February 14, the Hounds earned an 18-to-13 win over Western Maryland.

Swimming

Loyola's swimming team dropped a 46-to-29 decision to LaSalle on January 20 here at Evergreen. The Explorers, led by Bob Reagan, captured top honors in all but two events.

Jerry Rooney won the 50-yd. freestyle, while Lou McComas set a new pool record in winning first place in the 220 backstroke in 2:25.6. Lou held the old record which he set against Dickinson last month.

Reagan Sets Mark

LaSalle's Bob Reagan also set a new pool mark in the 100 freestyle, finishing in 54.3 seconds. Bob also held the old mark which he set two years ago.

On February 3, the mermen journeyed to Scranton, Pa. to sink Scranton's swimming team by a score of 60 to 14. The Hounds captured the number one spot in all nine events. Johnny Allan finished first in the 50 and 100 freestyle.

The tankmen made it two in a row as they thumped Georgetown University's squad by a 44½-to-30½ score on February 14 at Loyola. Jerry Rooney annexed first honors in the 50- and 100-yd. freestyles. Bob Muth and Andy McCormick finished one, two in the backstroke event to help pace the Hounds.

New York, Philadelphia And Points South Attract Ed Colbourn, Freshman Trackman

by Jack Potthast

"He travels the fastest, who travels alone". This was the motto of Ed Colbourn, Loyola's Freshman cross-country sensation, who realized that in his sport there could be only one winner and victory was to be his alone.

Ed began his running career in his Sophomore year at Mount Saint Joseph's. He was a member of the varsity squad for three years and ran the mile and half-mile course.

It was not until his last year that he won his first meet, and from that moment on, he has been continually leading the pack. It was against Patterson Park High School that he gained this first victory, and this thrill still rates top place among his joys.

Ran Cross Country

When Ed came to Loyola in September, Coach Bill McElroy recognized him as a potential star, and it did not take Ed long to prove his ability. In the cross-country meets this season, he placed in every event and won most of them for Loyola.

After the Greyhound season came to a close, Ed joined the Baltimore Olympic Club and went on his first trip to Washington, D. C. He placed fourth in the Evening Star Meet 880-yard handicap. Determined to better this mark, he traveled to Philadelphia the following week where he ran in the Philadelphia Inquirer Novice Invitation 1000-yard race.

Competes In New York

His next encounter proved unsuccessful as he failed to place in the Millrose Games in New York.

M-D Tickets

Student tickets for the Mason-Dixon Basketball Tournament at Catholic University March 8, 9 and 10 will be on sale tonight and tomorrow afternoon only at the ticket booth outside the Alumni Gymnasium.

This will be the only opportunity for Loyola students to take advantage of the cash savings involved in purchasing student tickets. Only tickets on sale at the door will be regular price general admission tickets.

Students are also reminded that the Mason-Dixon swimming tournament will take place at Loyola March 8 and 9.

Frosh Cagers Extend Win Streak As They Near League Crown

The Loyola Freshmen basketball team miss enjoying a highly successful season and are setting a pace that is matching that of their predecessors. The junior Hounds are sporting an 11-and-4 record and are favored to finish on top in their remaining contests. Possessing a squad that has plenty of height and bolstered by much reserve strength, the Frosh five should prove helpful to Loyola's basketball future.

On January 23, the Frosh cagers downed Calvert Hall's highly regarded quintet by a 15-point margin. The Cardinals were never ahead, but made a determined rally at the beginning of the second half, which brought the people to their feet. After closing the gap to within seven points, the Card rally fell short and the Hounds regained their early lead.

Down Fort Meade

Two nights later, on January 25, the Freshmen were host to Fort Meade's out-manned but scrappy quint. The Soldiers were no match for the Green and Grey as they were drubbed by a score of 71 to 18. Lack of practice and inexperience proved to be Fort Meade's downfall as Coaches Bill Johnson and Buf Zephir substituted freely. Every member of the squad saw considerable action.

Will Run The 880

Ed will represent Loyola in two more Freshman meets this season before it officially closes. He will run in the 1000-yard race at Chapel Hill, North Carolina at the end of February, and on March 3 will journey again to Philadelphia where he will compete in the College Freshman 880-yard run. After this meet, Ed will bring to a close a most successful indoor track season for Loyola and the Baltimore Olympic Club.

Although his indoor racing is finished for the year, Ed will not have much rest before he must again don the Green and Grey to dash around the cinder track. Ed hopes to run the mile and one-half-mile events this coming spring on the Loyola track squad.

Relying on past performances, we can trust that Ed will continue his winning ways during the coming season and with three more years of running lying before him, there is great hope that he will develop into the greatest runner in the history of the Greyhounds.

Mt. St. Joe's quintet, which is setting the pace in division I of the private school race, was the next guest of the Frosh five on January 27. The Gaels also fell victim to the victory-hungry freshmen, coming out on the short end of a 53 to 39 score. Taking advantage of their height, the Frosh managed to control the backboards and were never in serious trouble.

Pingpong Champ Hittleman Finds Competition Strong

Intramural sports enjoyed a successful couple of tournaments in the recent Ping-Pong play and the soon to be completed basketball tourney.

The Ping-Pong trial was won by Frosh Joel Hittleman who paddled through a sea of twenty men to gain his crown. His most effective weapon was a confusing slice sent at opponents from far back of the table.

Reeder Is Second

Maurice Reeder finished second and forced Champ Hittleman to go the entire five sets in the finals, which took over an hour to complete. Third place was filled by Dan Whiteford, who was followed by Lee Bardelman in fourth.

Commissioner Bamberger had high praise for the tournament, calling it the "best tournament of any intramural sport in years, because of high interest and keen competition." Perhaps Alan Gross (Lefty's Left Hand Man) should get the "unsung hero" award: it was he who furnished warm-up competition for the various contenders.

Three Teams Tie

The basketball tempest has not yet subsided due to a three way tie in Division B. Borris' Bulldogs, Lazy Eight, and Gremlins finished regular season play with identical records. The play-off for the title so far has found both the Bulldogs and Lazy Eight defeating the Gremlins. This leaves the division crown dangling between these two teams.

The winner of this play-off will meet the Bar Flies who have won

Division A with an undefeated record.

Eight In Tourney

March 8, 9 and 10 are red letter days on the calendar of M-D conference basketball followers, as these are the days for the annual tournament to be held this year in the District of Columbia at Catholic University.

The first eight teams in the league standing will secure berths in the tourney and it is unlikely that the host will be among them. The Reitzmen stand an even chance depending not only on what they do in these last three games, but also on how the other teams in the league fare in the final phase of action.

Race Is Wide Open

Hopkins has assured themselves of a berth by downing Randolph-Macon. As of this writing, Roanoke has moved into first place with A. U. next and Mt. St. Mary's holding down third. With such a close race to the finish line, a season rich with upsets and reversals, the tournament promises to be a keen and spirited one.

No team has the odds piled up on their side, and almost anyone of the eight can emerge victor on the third day.

Loyola Swimmers Hosts To 1951 Tourney

Basketball Season Closes; Tourney Scheduled At CU

by Bernie Wertzer

The basketball season moves into the home stretch tomorrow night for the Hound courtmen when they journey to the Eastern Shore for an engagement with Washington College. The following Wednesday they visit Catholic University in Washington and on Saturday, March 3, entertain Western Maryland College.

It will be do-or-die week for the Reitzmen as far as the Mason-Dixon Conference Tournament is concerned. Considering that the two road games are not so far from home there should be a large number of Loyola rooters in the stands when the green and grey take the floor.

Washington Out

Although the Hounds took the Shoremen in tow last month by a score of 57 to 43 at Evergreen, they can always expect trouble from coach Athey's squad because of a certain gentleman by the name of Nick Scallion, who is in the habit of swishing the cords for 25 or 30 points a game.

Another able shooter for the Chestertown club is Dan Samele.

As far as tourney play goes, Washington's hopes were rather crippled when they fell victim to B. U. last week.

To Meet C.U.

Following this, Coach Lefty Reitz will place his boys on the hardwood at Catholic U. in a mid-week encounter and also hopes to send them out on that same floor a week and a day later.

This will be the Hounds first meeting of the current season with C. U., a team which was supposed to surprise everybody in the league, but only astonished themselves.

Entertain Terrors

The Greyhounds have not forgotten what happened when they traveled to Westminster earlier this winter. They will be out to even the log against Western Maryland and wind up the season with a victory in a game which will be the last for a few dribblers in the Evergreen Gymnasium.

The Terrors boast the services of one of the state's and conference's leading scorers in Art Press. Right

Evergreen Pool To Be Site Of Meet

Two more swim meets are on the schedule for Loyola's swimmers before they play host to the Mason-Dixon Conference Swimming Tournament on March 9 and 10.

Both of these meets are with M-D competition. American University will be encountered on February 24 and Catholic University on March 3. The meets are away from home.

Should Remain Unbeaten

To date, the Greyhounds are undefeated in league play, and considering the past scores of the two teams that they met before the close of the season, the Hounds should remain unbeaten in the M-D loop.

American University will provide the tougher opposition. Catholic University has not been too powerful in the swim wars for the past several seasons and have not progressed much this year.

A.U. Won Last Year

In the M-D Tournament, which will be held in the Evergreen pool, Loyola will once again rule as favorites to capture top honors. Although the Hounds were supposed to win last year, American U. in an upset captured the title.

Swimming for the Hounds will be co-Captain Ed Miller in the 200-yard breaststroke. Co-Captain Andy McCormick will probably participate in the individual medley and one or two of the distant races.

McComas To Swim

Lou McComas, Loyola's top backstroker, will also attempt the individual medley along with the 200-yard backstroke event. Jerry Rooney, a double winner last season in the 50- and 100-yard events, will once again be gunning for victory in these tests.

It will be in the relay events that the Greyhounds will show their true strength, for the Hounds have some of the top freestylers in the conference to enter into these races.

Any combination of the following men should produce a winner for the Green and Grey. The freestylers are Johnny Allen, Bob Bollinger, Marv Bobitt, Buck Leonard, and Rooney. Bollinger is also top 220 man.

Muth Is Capable

Another consistent performer in the black trunks of the Greyhounds is Bob Muth. Muth is capable of swimming either the 200-yard backstroke or one of the distant races.

Other men to be called on for valuable team-points in the tourney are Pete Bamberger, a distance man, Bruce Healey and diver Tom McCormick.

Running With The Hounds

Tournament Time Pushing Spring Sports Planning

by Gene Conroy, Sports Editor

The winter season insofar as sports are considered is slowly but surely drawing to a close in collegiate circles. The much-publicized national basketball tournaments scheduled each year in various sections of the country will be held in the near future.

The top indoor track meets and games are just about over, and plans for the coming spring sports throughout the nation are beginning to take shape. While the Greyhounds of Loyola may not be in on these top events, they will be represented in the Mason-Dixon Conference tournaments.

The Loyola mermen are to play the role of hosts for this year's M-D Swimming Tournament. Action is scheduled for the Evergreen pool on the ninth and tenth of March. The Hounds will be out to recapture the swim crown which they relinquished last season in an upset to American University. Considering their season's record, their chances are excellent for doing just that. Coach Bill Klarner has his charges in tip-top condition, and the swimmers themselves possess the will to win. They are without a doubt the most spirited team on the Evergreen campus today.

A Standing Offer

To the wrestling tourney to be held at Towson State Teachers College on March 6 and 7, Loyola will send an oft-beaten but capable squad. Vince Kelly and Jack Cyphers should each come up with an individual crown in the championships if past performances mean anything. Both have been consistent winners this season and have won several of their bouts by falls. The remainder of the grapplers could capture valuable seconds and thirds to be added to the team's score, but other men throughout the conference seem to be too strong in their respective weight classes for Loyolans to win titles other than the two cases mentioned above.

Catholic University in Washington, D. C. will be the site of the annual Mason-Dixon Basketball Tournament. March 8, 9 and 10 will be the dates of the event. As yet, the eight team group to compete in this post-season tourney has not been completely determined. To the winner of the tournament will go the standing offer to take part in the annual National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament (N.A.I.B.) in Kansas City.

Spring Is In The Air

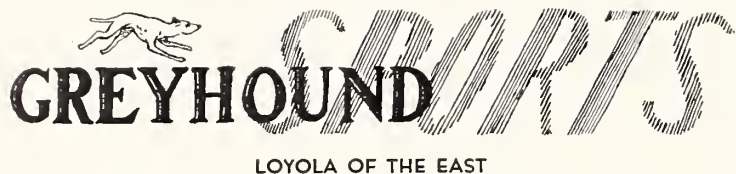

Although they have not as yet taken to the field or track or court, the various spring sports squads at Loyola have held meetings to determine where they stand for the coming season. Some members of the squads have been out trying to round into shape and thereby get the jump on the other fellow, but the official start of practice sessions for the lacrosse, tennis, track and baseball teams will not be till the early days of March.

As to the outlook of these squads or their chances of becoming winning teams for the year, nothing at present can be said. Only time will tell. But from rather reliable resources, it is understood that the A.A. office placed an order for four monogrammed crying towels some days back. Can it be true?

No Remedy

School spirit, and as a result, attendance at the basketball contests played at Evergreen are still far from what they should be at the College. Just recently, the Green and Grey court squad encountered Georgetown University. There was a fair sized crowd on hand for the game, but approximately half of the fans were from Georgetown. Here was a natural rivalry and what shaped up as a good contest completely ignored by the majority of Loyola backers. This same situation held true for the recent clash with American University. There seem to be no remedy. Do you have one? Let us know if you do.

By the way, this will be the last column written by yours truly. Thanks for stringing along to date.

Wrestlers Own Three And Three Record In Mason-Dixon Matches

The wrestling campaign can not be described in glowing phrases. The record book tells us that Mr. Alphonse Pletschette's charges held their own against conference opponents with three triumphs in six contests. Only the Mason-Dixon tournament at Towson Teachers on March 6 and 7 remains to complete the season.

Therein the glory lies; there the championships are decided and the plaudits obtained. The tournament winner, no matter what his season record, is top man in his division.

Hounds Have Hopes

The hopes of the Hounds in this event rest mainly upon 157-pound Jack Cyphers and Vince Kelly, last year's 167-pound champ in the South Atlantic. Neither has been defeated in conference competition.

Form has them as top tourney contenders in their respective classes. In the 137-pound class, Ted Haupt, on his record of four league wins, must be considered a threat.

McLaughlin Injured

Captain Bob Weiss is also capable of giving his opponents a great deal more trouble than they anticipate. Joe McLaughlin, who has steadily improved through the season, has suffered a shoulder injury and will be unable to compete in the post season tourney.
